

CASE STUDY

PROJECT

PASSION FOR THE NEWS

Gathering Intent to Watch, Interest in Topics, and Sentiment of True Crime Figure

CLIENT

OBJECTIVES

- > Determine what percentage of US Hispanics believe following the news is vital to their day-to-day.
- > Determine what percentage of US Hispanics say that turning to a trusted news source helps them feel informed and empowered to take on the day.
- > Determine what percentage of US Hispanics cannot imagine a day without watching the news on TV.
- > Understand where US Hispanics go for breaking news.

CivicScience asked a series of custom questions to the Univision publisher network audience, as well as syndicated questions to compare to different populations to see where people go first for breaking news.

INSIGHTS & FINDINGS

NEWS UPDATES AND EMPOWERMENT

Approximately 60% of readers believe it is very important and about 25% believe it's somewhat important to follow daily news updates on TV.

~90% of the Univision audience agrees that visiting a trusted news source makes them feel informed and empowered to act on the information they learned.

NEWS ON TV

Around 85% feel it is very important to get news from a trusted source.

About 65% watch news on TV every day or most days.

NEWS ON TV

Comparably, roughly 65% say they watch the news on Univision every day or most days.

Approximately 80% of the Univision audience believes that UV is a trusted news source.

About 90% of the people that are getting their news from Univision daily or most days believe it is a trusted news source.

GENDER AND AGE

Women are more likely (~5% to 10%) to say that Univision is a trusted news source.

The younger the generation, the more likely they are to Univision as a news source. Gen Z is ~95% likely to say Univision is a trusted news source, whereas Baby Boomers say they only agree 75%.

US HISPANICS

About 50% of all US Hispanics (weighted by the US Online Hispanic weighting scheme, proprietary to Univision) are watching 1 to 5 hours of Univision in an average week. (Not exclusive to news.)

Around 30% typically turn to a local news channel for breaking news.

Approximately 20% turn to social media, and another 20% turn to a national news network.

Of those that watch Univision, 70% are watching local TV news where they live every day or most days.

OUTCOME

The insights for the project served as a roadmap for Univision's upfront presentations to potential advertisers focusing on the theme of "Passion for News."